

Samples for Citations

1. Book by a Single Author

Weiss, Harvey. Machines and How They Work. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell, 1983.

2. Book by Two or More Authors

Murdock, Tony and Nik Stuart. Gymnastics. London: Franklin Watts, 1989.

Kemper, Dave, Verne Meyer, and Patrick Sebranek. Writers Inc. Burlington, WI: Write Source, 1990.

3. An Article in a General Encyclopedia or Familiar Reference work

Allen, John L., and Richard Buel. "Connecticut." The World Book Encyclopedia. 2000 ed.

"Japan." The New Encyclopaedia Britannica. 1997 ed.

4. An Article in a Subject Specific Reference Book

Oliver, James A. "Lizards." The New Book of Popular Science. 6 vols. Danbury, CT: Groliers, 1996.

"Solar System." UXL Encyclopedia of Science. Eds. Rob Nagel, David E. Newton, and Bridget Travers. 9 vols. Detroit: UXL, 1998.

5. An Article in a Periodical Published Weekly or Biweekly

Smolove, Jill. "Alive." People 11 Oct. 2004: 77-78.

Stone, Brad. "I Want a Movie Now." Newsweek 13 Sept. 2004: 52.

6. An Article in Periodical Published Monthly or Bimonthly

Ackerman, Jennifer. "Cranes." National Geographic Apr. 2004: 38-57.

Evans, David W. "The Quiet Place." Pennsylvania Game News Aug. 2004: 13-16.

7. An Article in a Newspaper

Rodriguez, Alex. "Soldier Details Abuses." Pittsburgh Post-Gazette 21 Oct. 2004, final ed.: A1+.

8. An Article on a Web Site: Author's name given

VanDevelder, Paul. "The Cauldron of Life." Audubon. August 2004. 27 Oct. 2004

<<http://magazine.audubon.org/truenature/truenature0408.html>>.

9. A WORLD WIDE WEB SITE: Author's name not given

"Genetically Modified Cats for Sale." CNN.com. 27 Oct. 2004. Cable News Network. 27 Oct. 2004

<<http://cnn.com/>>.

"Butterfly and Moth." Britannica Student Encyclopedia. 2004. Encyclopædia Britannica Online School Edition. 27 Oct. 2004 <<http://www.school.eb.com/ebi/article?tocId=9273421>>.